SECTION 2: LEAD CHARACTER GENERATION PROMPTS

1. THE BOY (The Nameless Man — Somatic Collapse)

Concept: The physical vessel of the trauma. He embodies the failing biological machinery—cardiac distress, pulmonary edema, renal failure, and sheer physical exhaustion.

Character Turnaround Sheet (Front, Back, Profile, Close-Up)

Character concept turnaround sheet, neutral studio grey background. A gaunt, emaciated 30-year-old man with wild, hollow sunken eyes, dark greasy matted hair clinging to a bruised forehead, and hollow gaunt cheeks with rough patchy dark stubble. He wears a tattered, soiled knee-length brownish-grey wool overcoat that progressively frays at the hem, over a torn, stained pale hospital gown with faded blue geometric dots. His legs and bare feet are exposed; dirty, calloused soles, bruised ankles, and cyanotic bluish fingernails and cuticles. Multiple angles: front full body, back full body, 3/4 standing pose, and intense macro portrait. Gritty practical effects stop-motion look, Jan Švankmajer aesthetic, bruised purple, ochre, and sepia tones, raw tactile skin texture, 35mm film grain.

Close-Up Facial & Emotion Portrait

Tight 85mm portrait of an exhausted, haggard young man, sunken hollow eye sockets, dark circles, wild bulging terrified pupils reflecting a sickly mustard-sepia sky. Cracked, bleeding lips with dried salt crust, soot-smeared gaunt cheekbones, thin beads of cold sweat running through road grime on his temple. Chapped skin, stubble, intense expression of bone-deep fatigue and grim endurance. Chiaroscuro lighting from low angle, bruised violet ambient shadows, vintage 1990s practical horror cinematography.

Physical Progression States

- State 1 (Clean/Awakening - Act I): Heavy dust and sweat, hospital gown intact, wool coat heavy and damp, bare feet calloused.
- State 2 (Somatic Breakdown - Acts II–IV): Black bile stains around chin, soot from burned telemetry on palms, torn right coat sleeve, blue cyanotic fingernails.
- State 3 (Terminal Integration - Acts V–VII): Left arm paralyzed and tucked into rope belt, torn fingernails on right hand with dried dark blood, chest soaked in melted amber honey and purple iodine, coat reduced to shredded vest, serene facial expression.

2. THE GIRL (The Nameless Woman — Memory Archive)

Concept: The psychological archive of the trauma. She embodies the domestic guilt, unresolved promises, and interpersonal history of the crash.

Character Turnaround Sheet (Front, Back, Profile, Close-Up)

Character concept turnaround sheet, neutral studio grey background. A gaunt, pale 28-year-old woman with hollow, haunting dark eyes, long matted dark brown hair tangled with dry lint and plaster dust, and a hollow, chiseled jawline. She wears an oversized, heavy dark brown thrift-store wool coat with fraying cuffs and trailing hem, over a thin, threadbare bleached-cotton hospital gown that reaches mid-calf. Bare bruised feet with calloused heels, white plaster dust caked beneath her broken fingernails. Multiple views: full-body front, full-body back, side profile limping, and tight macro portrait. Practical stop-motion puppet aesthetic, Brothers Quay and Phil Tippett style, sepia, stone gray, bruised violet, distressed 35mm grain.

Close-Up Facial & Emotion Portrait

Tight 85mm portrait of a pale, haunted young woman, intense hollow dark eyes with wet sclera, tears cutting clean vertical tracks through white plaster dust on her sunken cheeks. Matted strands of dark hair across forehead, chapped dry lips, jaw clenched in stoic sorrow. A tiny scar along the right cheekbone matching the man's. Low-key dramatic lighting, cold saline haze, bruised purple and dusty ochre atmosphere, 1990s analog film look.

Carried Relics Turnaround

Still life prop turnaround of three humble, worn personal relics resting on a cracked checkerboard surface: 1) a chipped, heavy white ceramic coffee mug with a baked-in brown coffee ring stain at the bottom; 2) an antique oval hand mirror with clouded, desilvered glass cracked diagonally, wrapped in a strip of frayed brown wool coat fabric; 3) a tarnished flat brass mortise key with its teeth worn completely smooth into a rounded blade. Tactile macro detail, soft directional light, muted museum lighting, 35mm grain.

SECTION 3: THE FIGMENTS & ENTITIES (GENERATION PROMPTS)

1. FIGMENT 1: THE SCORCHED TELEMETRY (The Guilt Figment)

Narrative Context: Born from the crash aftermath, the burning car, and the panic of running away.

Full-body creature design of a grotesque, shuddering quadruped beast constructed from melted, charred bedside hospital telemetry monitors, tangled bundles of scorched black power cords, and miles of trailing, looping paper EKG ribbons printed with jagged red arrhythmia waveforms. In place of a face, a cluster of cracked, soot-blackened vintage camera lenses and cathode-ray tubes drip hot amber grease and engine oil. Charred family photographs and fragments of a twisted automobile steering wheel are fused into its smoldering, fibrous carapace. Sparks and acrid grey smoke drift from its vents. Low-angle

35mm shot, Phil Tippett Mad God practical creature design, stop-motion puppet texture, sepia and burnt-ember lighting, bruised purple sky backdrop.

2. FIGMENT 2: THE SEVERED VOW (The Regret Figment)

Narrative Context: Born from marital betrayal, broken sobriety promises, and domestic collapse.
Full-body creature design of a towering eleven-foot-tall skeletal entity draped in voluminous layers of moldering, yellowed antique wedding satin fused with miles of dirty surgical gauze and rusty traction bands. Its limbs are elongated, multi-jointed scissor-arms constructed from rusted surgical steel calipers, examination stirrups, and heavy stainless irrigation syringes tipped with sewing needles. Its head is a cracked, antique white porcelain doll mask featuring two separate mouth holes with miniature vibrating speaker cones behind them, venting wisps of cold iodine vapor. Standing in a pool of orange iodine on seafoam surgical tile. 35mm wide shot, Brothers Quay surrealism, stop-motion armature, eerie sepia and bruised violet palette.

3. FIGMENT 3: THE SOMATIC RUPTURE (The Physical Anguish / Flatline Figment)

Narrative Context: Born from physical dying, CPR chest compressions, electrical defibrillation, and ventilator trauma.
Colossal creature concept design of a massive, biomechanical titan. The body is formed of raw, striated red muscle bundles, bleached calcified ribcages, and heavy bronze orthopedic traction halos pinned directly into bone with three-inch threaded surgical screws. Inside its hollow iron-cage chest, a massive, blackened heart pulses violently in an arrhythmic spasm. In place of a face and head, a heavy spinning bronze ventilator turbine screams with motion blur, blowing clouds of icy blue freon frost into the air. Arcs of violet electrical sparks jump between bronze electrodes on its shoulders. Low angle looking up, industrial nightmare creature, Adam Jones Tool music video aesthetic, tactile latex, oxidized bronze, raw meat textures, 35mm grain.

4. THE CHILD WITH THE LOCKED MOUTH & SNAPPED MATCHES

Narrative Context: Encountered by the Girl in the narrowing alley (Clip 028).
A small, child-sized figure standing at the end of a dark, narrow stone alleyway. The figure is wrapped in an adult-sized, oversized ragged brown wool coat that drags on the floor like a tent. Its head is a completely smooth, pale papier-mâché oval with no eyes or nose, featuring only a tiny antique iron padlock clamped shut over where the lips should be. The small, dirty hand extends outward, holding a soggy, open cardboard matchbook where every single wooden match has been snapped in half. Dim streetlamp lighting, sepia tone, Jan Švankmajer style.

5. THE SCHOOL DESK PAPER-BAG FIGURE

Narrative Context: Encountered by the Girl in the flooded classroom (Clip 032–036).
A thin, many-jointed emaciated figure sitting hunched at a wooden school desk in ankle-deep black water. It wears a crumpled brown paper grocery bag over its entire head, with no eyeholes, frantically scratching with a broken graphite pencil at a soaking-wet blank sheet of paper. When the bag is lifted, its face is an identical younger, exhausted version of the woman, with one eyelid permanently sealed shut with yellowed surgical adhesive tape. Somber, cold low-key lighting, desaturated sepia and ink-black reflections.

6. THE FILING-CABINET ELBOW CREATURE

Narrative Context: Encountered by the Girl in the fleshy forest (Clip 044–046).
A tall, spindly humanoid creature with four jointed elbows on each arm, crawling upside down down the trunk of a spiraling spinal-column tree. Its torso is an antique olive-drab metal filing cabinet built into its ribcage, with dozens of tiny drawers pulling open and shut. One drawer extends forward, labeled only with a dented brass key, revealing a single chipped white ceramic coffee mug inside. Tactile stop-motion puppet with wooden and silicone skin, surreal dark fantasy, 35mm lens.

7. THE GURNEY MASS OF HANDS

Narrative Context: Encountered by the Girl in the hospital corridor (Clip 060–062).
A rusted stainless steel hospital gurney sitting in the center of an infinite corridor. Beneath a stained white cotton bedsheet, a shape rises and falls rhythmically. As the sheet is pulled back, it reveals no human torso, but a dense, writhing cluster of hundreds of pale, waxen hands and fingers tightly gripping the fabric and each other. The fingers loosen one by one, sinking like melted wax through the steel mattress. Cold fluorescent lighting, green hospital tiles, disturbing practical illusion.

8. THE CLOCK-TORSO FIGURE WITH HOSPITAL MASK

Narrative Context: Encountered by the Girl on the checkerboard dunes (Clip 070–076).
A hulking, broad-shouldered figure standing in the middle of a shifting checkerboard desert. Its torso is a massive, swollen antique grandfather clock housing made of stained oak and tarnished brass, with a face that has Roman numerals but zero clock hands. Its head is completely covered by a dirty, cracked surgical paper mask that pulses inward and outward with irregular, wet ticking sounds. Folds inward like a deflated tent when touched. Distressed sepia analog grain.

9. THE KITCHEN TOWEL ENTITY

Narrative Context: Encountered by the Girl in the rising water kitchen (Clip 084–086).
A grotesque domestic figure seated at a formica kitchen table in knee-deep rising water. The entire figure is constructed from piled, sodden terrycloth bath towels, yellowed dishcloths, and tangled ropes of greasy dark human hair. It has no discernible face, but possesses two wet fabric arms that mechanically slide a dry, clean folded towel across the table, pulling it back playfully whenever approached. Claustrophobic overhead dead fluorescent lighting, yellowed linoleum.

10. THE SUBTERRANEAN DESERT EYE

Narrative Context: Encountered by the Girl under the tiles (Clip 090–092).
Macro extreme wide shot of a desert of warped checkerboard tiles. Beneath the sand, a colossal biological human eye, twenty feet wide, opens beneath the black-and-white tiles. The bloodshot sclera and dark dilated pupil track a tiny walking silhouette on the surface. When it blinks shut, a circular mound of moist ochre clay rises in its place, leaving a circular scar in the desert. Surreal landscape photography, 1990s practical matte painting look.

11. THE DINING ROOM FACELESS FIGURE

Narrative Context: Encountered by the Girl in the House of Regret (Clip 104–112).
A life-sized, stiffly seated figure sitting across a peeling wooden dining table. It wears a vintage child's brown winter coat with sleeves far too short, exposing pale waxy wrists. Its face is a smooth, blank expanse of unpainted skin without eyes, nose, or mouth. In front of it sits a chipped ceramic plate containing a dried, cold, petrified meal, while a ceiling leak drips rusty water into the plate with mechanical cadence. When touched, the face dents inward like soft sculpting wax. Sepia interior lighting, peeling vintage floral wallpaper.

12. THE WARDROBE WALL-SCRUBBING FIGURE

Narrative Context: Encountered by the Girl inside the open wardrobe (Clip 120–124).
Inside an open wooden wardrobe that extends into an infinite hallway, a thin, skeletal humanoid silhouette scrubs frantically at an indelible dark stain on the brick wall using a stiff, dry bristle brush. Its shoulders jerk with rapid, useless mechanical strokes. Its arm is seamlessly fused at the elbow with the person standing beside it. The dark wall stain peels away like a sheet of old dried skin, revealing bare mortar. Moody shadow, amber flashlight beam, stop-motion animation aesthetic.

13. THE NURSERY ROCKING SHADOW & TOOTH MOBILE

Narrative Context: Encountered by the Girl in the nursery (Clip 128–132).
A dark nursery room with bare floorboards. Hanging from the ceiling is a delicate crib mobile constructed from copper wire and dozens of extracted, yellowed human molars and baby teeth, rotating slowly in dead still air. Beneath it, a childlike shadow rocks rhythmically in an antique wooden rocking chair, its feet dangling inches above the floorboards. The shadow reaches out an arm made of silhouette, sliding a smooth brass key across the floor. Eerie, atmospheric, low key lighting, sepia and violet tones.

SECTION 4: SET & ENVIRONMENT GENERATION PROMPTS

SET 01: THE WARPED CHECKERBOARD DUNES & FAULT

Scene Function: The Boy and Girl's awakening zone; non-Euclidean desert of comatose disorientation.
Wide establishing landscape photograph of an infinite desert. Instead of sand, the entire rolling dune terrain is paved with warping, buckling black-and-white checkerboard ceramic tiles that undulate like ocean waves. Tiles are cracked, chipped, with black grout oozing dry yellow powder. In the distance, a colossal tectonic fault line shears the desert in half, bridged by thick, fibrous cords resembling surgical sutures weeping amber resin. The horizon curves upward into a Mobius strip into a bruised purple and sickly mustard-ochre sky with capillary lightning. 16mm ultra-wide shot, practical miniature set look, Jan Švankmajer surrealism, 35mm grain.

SET 02: THE CATHEDRAL-CITY OF BONE & MINARETS

Scene Function: The Girl's starting city; architectural subconscious monuments.
Wide angle architectural landscape of an impossible gothic cathedral-city. Towering minarets and spiraling spires grown organically from porous calcified bone, travertine stone, and petrified ivory vertebrae. In place of standard windows, hundreds of hollow, eye-shaped circular apertures glow with faint red and amber living bioluminescence. Non-Euclidean staircases with no railings wrap around the exterior of spires, climbing vertically and curling into inverted stone ceilings. At the center of an empty plaza stands an oxidized brass payphone booth adorned with human teeth. Swirling dust of sepia and bruised violet, dramatic atmospheric scale, 35mm film grain.

SET 03: THE VERTEBRAE CALDERA & ASH BASIN

Scene Function: Arena for Figment 1 (The Scorched Telemetry).
A sunken volcanic crater basin enclosed by towering vertical amphitheater walls formed of interlocked, calcified human vertebrae and colossal curved rib arches. The crater floor is a flat, desolate expanse of fine, powdery pale grey volcanic ash, through which hairline fissures vent acrid white steam and black soot. Smoldering scraps of printed medical paper and melted copper wire litter the ground. High-contrast chiaroscuro lighting, deep shadows, industrial ash atmosphere, 24mm wide angle, practical stop-motion horror miniature.

SET 04: THE SPIRALING FLESH CANOPY & DIALYSIS RIVER

Scene Function: Renal and vascular failure zone; uphill fluid struggle.
A claustrophobic, humid biomechanical jungle. The canopy is formed of spiraling spinal-column tree trunks and thick, throbbing vascular burls weeping heavy amber droplets. Hanging from the branches like lianas are miles of translucent medical-grade plastic IV tubing filled with sluggish amber urine, clear saline, and dark venous blood with trapped air bubbles. The ground is a spongy, resilient mat of purple muscle tissue covered in ochre lichen. Cutting through the forest is a fifty-yard-wide river flowing sluggishly uphill over terraced bone weirs, churning with yellow foam. In the background, colossal kidney-shaped travertine monoliths vent jets of steam into the bruised sky. 24mm wide shot, moist biological textures, rich analog grain.

SET 05: THE ROTTING TILE CATHEDRAL OF SINKS

Scene Function: Arena for Figment 2 (The Severed Vow).
Interior wide shot of an immense, decrepit gothic cathedral nave. The soaring structural columns are made from thousands of chipped porcelain bathroom sinks stacked to the ceiling, all continuously weeping trickles of rusty brown water from oxidized brass faucets. The high vaulted ceiling is constructed of overlapping translucent blue-black chest X-ray films, filtering sickly violet and green light onto the floor. The floor is paved with seafoam-green surgical tiles, centered around a wide, shallow reflecting pool filled with dark orange iodine solution. Dozens of rusted orthopedic traction pulleys hang from ceiling beams. Distressed practical set design, 35mm wide shot, eerie silence.

SET 06: THE HOUSE OF REGRET (DOMESTIC LABYRINTH)

Scene Function: The Girl's descent through domestic guilt and memory.
Interior set design of a claustrophobic, shifting 1970s apartment. The hallways overlap and fold into impossible angles, with wallpaper peeling in long, brittle strips to reveal older layers of floral wallpaper beneath. The dining room features a water-stained ceiling leaking into a chipped plate on a warped wooden table. The bedroom ceiling is only four feet high, dominated by a mattress piled with heavy damp winter coats stitched together at the sleeves. The wardrobe opens into an endless corridor of raw brick, and the nursery is bare with a rotating mobile of human teeth. Dim, warm tungsten lighting, dust motes, tactile decay, vintage analog film look.

SET 07: THE BASALT CARDIAC ESCARPMENT & MELTING MINARETS

Scene Function: Ventricular tachycardia zone; physical struggle against 45-degree gravity.
Extreme vertical shot of an immense, jagged mountain precipice formed from petrified black cardiac muscle and basalt checkerboard slabs. Loose stones roll sideways along the ground due to a 45-degree gravitational tilt. Carved into the sheer cliff are narrow, spiraling stone staircases with no handrails wrapping around melting, porous bone spires, ascending thousands of feet over a bottomless abyss of boiling sepia fog. Silent violet lightning ruptures the gangrenous yellow clouds above. Vertigo camera angle, brutal scale, high physical danger, 16mm gritty practical texture.

SET 08: THE BLACK GLASS TOWER & ROOM OF SUSPENDED

DOORS

Scene Function: The Girl's ascension to false exits.
An impossible geometric interior inside an obsidian glass tower. Hundreds of narrow stone staircases crisscross the air in multiple directions, passing through one another without touching. Beneath the stairs, a low stone crawlway tunnel contracts and expands rhythmically like lungs. The tunnel opens into an enormous void chamber where dozens of freestanding, suspended wooden doorframes float motionless in mid-air. Through each open doorframe, a different false reality is visible—a sunlit green meadow, a rain-slicked city intersection, an empty white room—but behind every frame is only a vertical drop into darkness. Muted lighting, deep spatial depth, 24mm wide lens.

SET 09: THE LEVIATHAN RIBCAGE COLOSSEUM

Scene Function: Arena for Figment 3 (The Somatic Rupture).
A massive circular mountaintop arena paved with polished black-and-white marble checkerboard tiles. The perimeter is enclosed by fifty-foot-tall curved ivory pillars resembling the intercostal ribcage of a titan leviathan, open to a swirling storm of bruised purple and sulfur yellow. In the dead center of the colosseum floor, a jagged fissure bulges upward, erupting with bubbling black arterial tar and violet electrical sparks. Wind howls through the gaps between the ribs, creating an acoustic organ drone. Dramatic high-contrast theatrical lighting, Phil Tippett scale, 35mm anamorphic.

SET 10: THE FOLDING WARD & THE PLASTER SEAM

Scene Function: The Girl's approach to the final barrier.
An interminable hospital corridor lined with cold, institutional seafoam tiles and chipped white enamel baseboards. Overhead fluorescent ballast lights flicker erratically. At the center of the hall sits a lone gurney holding an indentation shaped like a sleeping body. At the far end, an illuminated red EXIT sign hangs upside down from a low ceiling. As the corridor progresses, the walls and ceiling curl inward like a closing seashell, dead-ending at a blank, unpainted wall of dry white plaster marked by a single, dark vertical fissure breathing warm air. Low angle, psychological horror, practical studio build.

SET 11: THE CONJOINED PLATFORM OF CONVERGENCE (The Static Void)

Scene Function: The final conjoining, embrace, and dissolution (Clips 213–224).
`Cosmic surrealist set design. In an infinite, tranquil void of soft lilac and lavender analog CRT scanline static, a single sixty-foot circular platform of black-and-white checkerboard tiles floats completely motionless in mid-air. Floating frozen around the perimeter thirty feet out are shattered fragments of hospital reality: an inverted stainless steel cart, an IV bag dripping upward into the sky, and a wooden school desk. In the center of the tiles sit a dropped ceramic cup, a wrapped mirror, and a smooth brass key. Soft, heavenly, unearthly ambient light, pure spatial tranquility, 35mm wide shot, peaceful and tragic mood.`

SET 12: REAL-WORLD ICU TRAUMA BAY 4 (Clinical Reality)

Scene Function: The waking threshold and final flatline (Clips 225–226).
`Authentic cinematic 35mm film shot of a real-world hospital Intensive Care Unit trauma bay in gentle late-afternoon natural light. Golden sunlight streams through horizontal venetian blinds, casting warm, natural stripes across the linoleum floor. Two hospital gurneys sit positioned side-by-side in the center of the room. On the beds, a young man and a young woman lie propped slightly, resting peacefully under clear plastic oxygen masks and hospital blankets. Above them, two wall-mounted cardiac telemetry monitors display vital signs, with their green waveforms drawing a single synchronized flat line. Grounded, quiet, poignant realism, zero surrealism, Kodak 500T film look.`
